

Steve Maloney, Partner, Azuola Risk Advisors

Steve Maloney is currently a Partner at Azuola Risk Advisors. Prior to his involvement with Azuola, Steve was a Senior Manager at Accenture specializing in energy risk. Prior to Accenture, Steve worked at Towers Perrin as a Senior Consultant in Risk and Financial Services focusing on energy and power system matters, and supported Towers Perrin's Enterprise Risk Management practice. Prior to joining Towers Perrin, Mr. Maloney was the managing director for risk systems for an international energy consulting firm supporting energy risk management trading systems integration and model development assignments in US and Europe. Mr. Maloney has extensive experience of more than 25 years working with energy companies in the U.S. and Europe in the areas of valuation and market and credit risk in oil, natural gas, LNG, and electric generation. He has published extensively on energy matters. Mr. Maloney is also well recognized in the electric utility industry for his expertise in the safety, regulation, and economics related to nuclear power plant design, licensing, and operation.